

Welcome to the November edition of 3CE's Plugged In newsletter! It's Thanksgiving time again, and we at 3CE remain grateful to our customers for partnering with us to create a healthier and more sustainable future. By engaging with our outreach events, participating in our innovative energy programs, and just by choosing 3CE's electricity service, 3CE customers are helping to make real, positive, and lasting change. Thank you for using your Power for Good.

Newly enrolling customers in the City of Atascadero and unincorporated San Luis Obispo County can learn more about the benefits of 3CE service at our bilingual webinars next month, with a third webinar in English for solar customers. Keep reading for more details.

3CE Celebrates New Beginnings in Paso Robles

On Nov. 22, Habitat for Humanity SLO hosted a heartfelt Welcome Home celebration in Paso Robles for nine families who achieved the dream of homeownership. Through their hard work, alongside dedicated volunteers, contributions from local businesses, and $22,500 in funding from Central Coast Community Energy (3CE), these families built their own beautiful, fully electrified homes.

The event was a joyous occasion, filled with pride and gratitude as families received their keys and showed off the results of their efforts. Children laughed and played on the new playground, while parents shared the pride of their accomplishment with neighbors and friends. These homes represent more than just a place to live – these homes symbolize resilience, community support, and a sustainable future.

We're proud to have supported this project and celebrate these families as they embark on this exciting new chapter!

3CE Partners with United Way for Employee Giving

United Way
Monterey County

At Central Coast Community Energy (3CE), we are committed to improving the health and well-being of our community. One way we accomplish this is to work with a trusted community leader, United Way Monterey County.

United Way helps families and individuals achieve financial stability and improve health outcomes. This year, 3CE employees are participating in the agency's first employee giving campaign to give back to the communities we serve.

Announcing the campaign, 3CE CEO Robert M. Shaw said, "Our Central Coast has faced unprecedented challenges from fires, floods, landslides, and other climate-related disasters. As an agency, Central Coast Community Energy is building new renewable resources and providing innovative electrification programs to move our region away from fossil fuels. We have adapted programs in the face of adversity to help communities rebuild. Now, through our first employee giving campaign with United Way, our employees have an opportunity to strengthen and support their communities. Together with United Way, our employees are demonstrating their personal commitment to building a more sustainable, equitable, and resilient future for all."

Electrify Your Home: A Look Back and Next Steps

At Central Coast Community Energy (3CE), we remain committed to helping customers transition to cleaner, more sustainable energy solutions through programs like Electrify Your Home. This initiative focuses on replacing fossil fuel-powered water heaters and HVAC systems with modern, all-electric equipment. Earlier this month, 3CE hosted two community workshops to gather feedback on how to improve and expand access to home electrification across the Central Coast.

The community workshops were hosted in Watsonville on Nov. 7 and in Goleta on Nov. 14. During these sessions, we reviewed 3CE's current Electrify Your Home Program and explored ideas for the future. Some ideas included contractor outreach and education, home assessments, income-qualified direct installs, rebates for additional electric appliances, and tracking home energy usage. Attendees shared valuable insights about barriers and opportunities in home electrification, and discussed ways to enhance equity, comfort, and air quality while empowering customers to make sustainable energy choices.

The Electrify Your Home program was also the subject of a presentation on Nov. 20 by 3CE Energy Programs Analyst Griffin Boyle to Santa Cruz County's Commission on the Environment. Topics included the benefits of home electrification, how heat pumps work, an explanation of the partnership with TECH Clean California, and the collaboration between 3CE's Programs department and the agency's Community Advisory Council (CAC Chair Gine Johnson is also a member of the Commission).

Looking ahead, we're excited to continue this conversation with our Community Advisory Council on Feb. 5, 2025, followed by our next round of community workshops in April 2025. Your feedback is essential in refining Electrify Your Home to better serve our diverse communities across the Central Coast. Stay tuned for updates and opportunities to participate!
